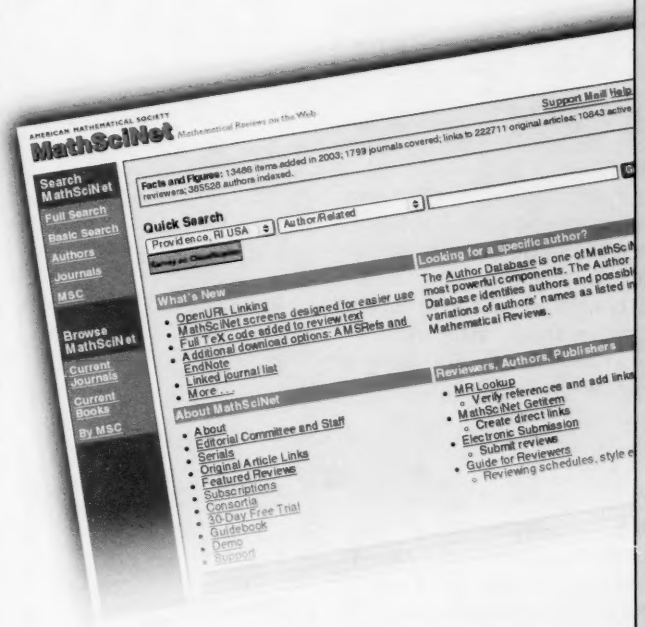
MathSciNet

The Mathematical Reviews Database on the Web—your premier source for searching the world's mathematical literature!



www.ams.org/mathscinet

MathSciNet is a unique database of a scholarly nature … It has excellent coverage of current mathematics literature, providing signed reviews of mathematics articles, conference proceedings, and books of mathematical research. It is a database which is useful not only to mathematicians, but to science and engineering faculty also.

—Issues in Science & Technology Librarianship

MathSciNet offers:

- Accurate bibliographic information
- Top-quality reviews of published mathematics items
- Links from reviews to over 210,000 original articles online
- 30,000 linked reference lists
- Links to related MR Database entries
- Extensive search capabilities
- Journal information
- Clipboard
- Three browsing tools
- OpenURL article links
- Database expansion items
- And much more!

For further details about MathSciNet, go to www.ams.org/mathscinet.

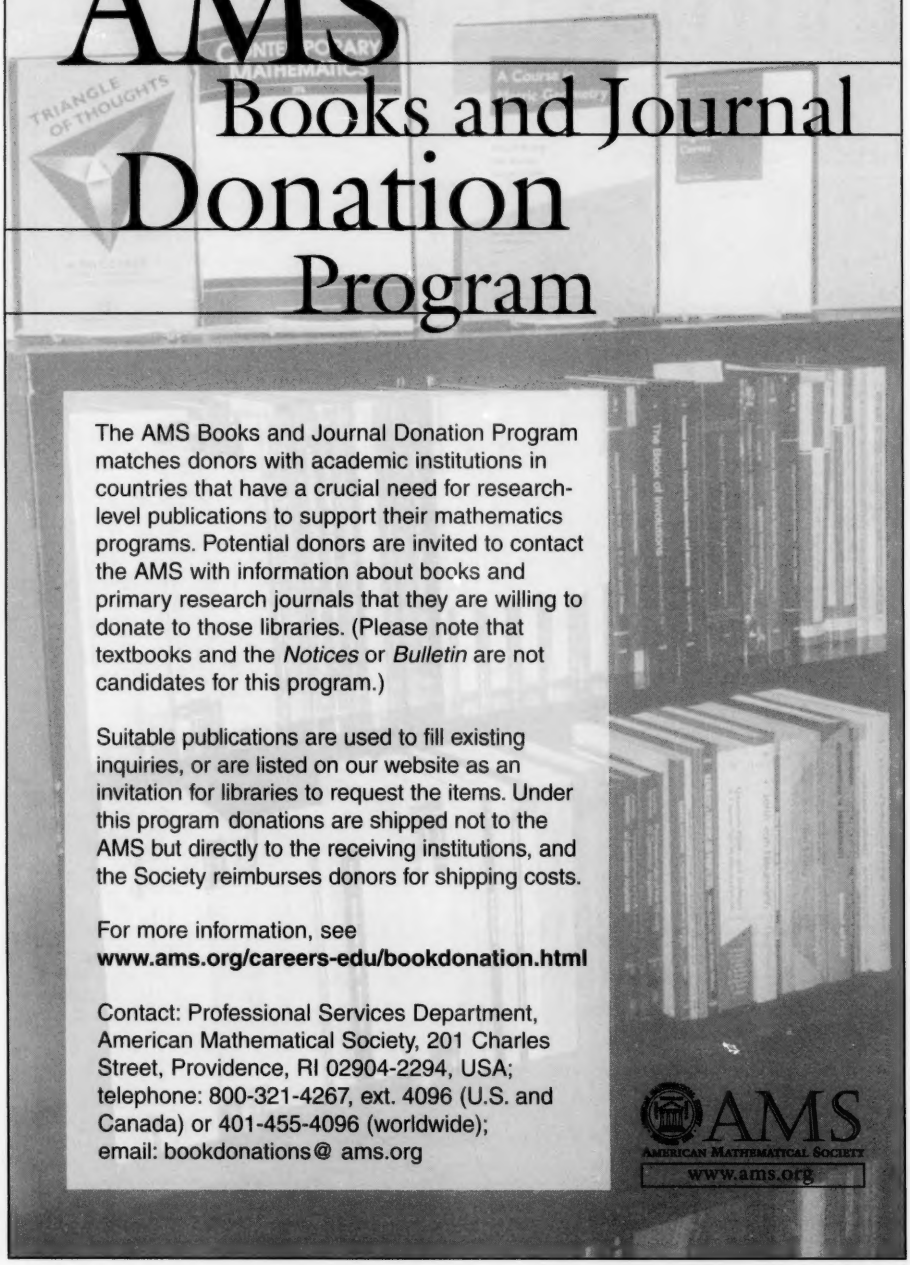
AMS Books and Journal Donation Program



The AMS Books and Journal Donation Program matches donors with academic institutions in countries that have a crucial need for research-level publications to support their mathematics programs. Potential donors are invited to contact the AMS with information about books and primary research journals that they are willing to donate to those libraries. (Please note that textbooks and the Notices or Bulletin are not candidates for this program.)

Suitable publications are used to fill existing inquiries, or are listed on our website as an invitation for libraries to request the items. Under this program donations are shipped not to the AMS but directly to the receiving institutions, and the Society reimburses donors for shipping costs.

For more information, see

What's New in Mathematics

www.ams.org/new-in-math

Feature Column

Monthly essays on mathematical topics.

Recent columns include "Voting and Elections" and "Mathematics and the Genome," by Joe Malkevitch (York College, CUNY). The archive includes essays by Malkevitch, Tony Phillips, and Steven Weintraub.

Math in the Media

Highlights of math news in the media.

Tony Phillips (Stony Brook University) provides analysis and personal commentaries on math-related stories from major metropolitan newspapers and science magazines on a wide range of topics: John Nash, Ben Franklin's Magic Squares, the Abel Prize, the hat problem, education, Fourier transform of the fossil record, differential equations of pathogen virulence, and many more.

Math Digest

Summaries of articles on mathematics.

AMS staff writers and AMS-AAAS Media Fellows post summaries of math-related articles that appear in Science, Nature, Scientific American, American Scientist, Science News, Discover, Nature Science Update, New Scientist, newspapers, and other print and Web sources.

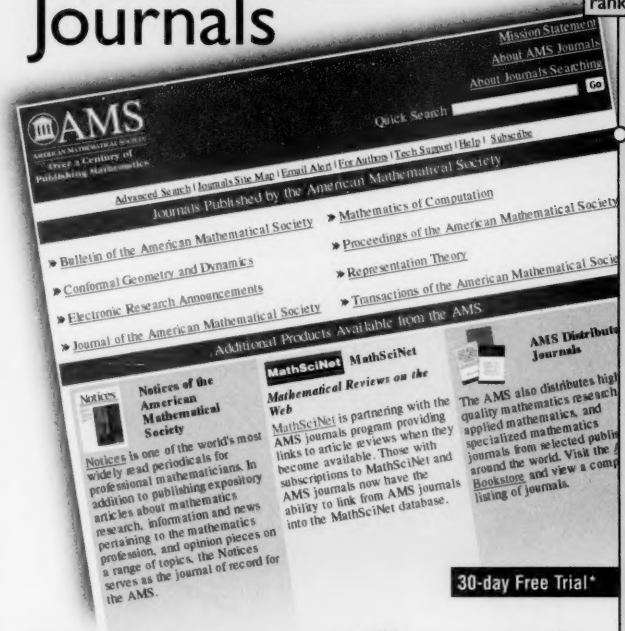
AMS Electronic Journals

2000 IMPACT FACTOR
Three AMS Journals ranked among top ten!



www.ams.org/journals

- Over 100 years of the highest quality in mathematical research
- Unique articles, book reviews, and reports
- Editors who are prominent in their fields
- Subscribe to the 2003 print versions of Journal of Algebraic Geometry (JAG), Journal of the American Mathematical Society (JAMS), Mathematics of Computation (MCOM), Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society (PROC), Transactions of the American Mathematical Society (TRAN) or Moscow Mathematical Journal (MMJ), and receive the electronic versions for FREE.
- Once you arrange access to one or more free electronic versions of AMS Journals, you will have access—at no additional charge—to two electronic-only journals of the AMS, Conformal Geometry and Dynamics (ECGD) and Representation Theory (ERT).
- Lower rate for the electronic version: Enjoy a lower subscription rate on JAMS, MCOM, PROC, TRAN, and JAG when you choose to receive only the electronic version.

Benefits of subscribing:

- There are over 7,300 AMS journal articles available online to date.
- Articles are now posted online upon acceptance and before appearing in a print issue.
- You can search, browse, view math symbols, and print articles specifically in your discipline.
- We offer free email notification of new articles.
- There is extensive linking between MathSciNet and AMS electronic journals.
- AMS electronic journals are also accessible through OCLC FirstSearch, EBSCO Online, SwetsNet, Information Quest, and the U.S. Department of Energy's PubSCIENCE.

AMS-distributed journals:

The AMS also distributes scientific journals from other publishers. Contact us for additional information or for a complete list of AMS-distributed journals, visit www.ams.org/distribution.
